GUIDELINE INFORMATION

Previous publications and revisions

First published: 1987

Revisions: 1990, 1999, 2006, 2012, 2018

Future revision

Suggested future complete document revision: 2026

Suggested topics for future revision:

- Scope of anaesthesia practice for family medicine physicians
- Environmentally friendly anaesthesia and sustainable practice
- Medication: specifically with regards to updates on advances made in drug labelling both locally and internationally
- Guidelines on the use of ultrasound and echocardiography in anaesthesia
- Monitoring and care standards
- Guidelines for ageing anaesthetists

SASA Executive Committee 2022

Caroline Corbett

Sean Chetty

Lance Lasersohn

Gareth Davies

Adéle de Goede

Acknowledgements

Professor Hyla Kluyts

Professor Johan Diedericks

Elsabe Klinck for previous contribution to "Responsible use of healthcare resources"

Conveners

Adéle de Goede and Thenjiwe Hlongwane

Full document review

Professor Dean Gopalan

Contributors

D'tee Adeleke

Pieter Betting

Mike Blackburn

Annemie Burke

Esther Cloete

Ryan Davids

Gareth Davies

Dean Gopalan

Ross Hofmeyr

Caroline Lee

Christina Lundgren

Sekai Ndemera

Celeste Quan

Arthur Rantloane

Anthony Reed

Andre Roux

Daniel Shmukler

Danielle Shead

Charle Steyl

Ina Vorster

Ernest Welsh

Natalie Zimmelman

Source publication and documentation

The Guidelines to the Practice of Anesthesia by the Canadian Anesthesiologists' Society. Revised Edition. Canadian Journal of Anesthesia. 2022;69(1).

Errata

Errata will be published online on www.sasaweb.com.

Disclaimer

While every effort has been made to ensure scientific accuracy, SASA shall not be responsible or in any way liable for errors, omissions or inaccuracies in this publication, whether arising from negligence or otherwise or for any consequences arising therefrom. These guidelines are intended to provide a guide to the minimum standards that should be applied to achieve best clinical care. However, as all patients, environments, and situations are unique, it remains the individual clinician's responsibility and duty of care to the patient to exercise independent, informed clinical judgement.